Coining the Souvenirs.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—The coining force of the United States has been divided into two shifts, and the work of coining the souvenir half-dollars donated by Congress to the World's Fair will go on night and day without intermission. About thirty thousand coins can be turned out every twenty-four hours, and it is anticipated that not less than three hundred thousand will be ready for delivery by Wednesday next, the last day of the month. The total number to be coined is five million.

After the Thieves.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 26.—The country is being scoured for the Northern Pacific train robbers, but no capture has as yet been made. The ground is covered with snow from 18 inches to two feet at the place the robbery occurred, and the streams are all swollen, rendering travel across country extremely dangerous. The Northern Pacific is assisting the police in the search, but thus far no reward has been offered. It is the opinion of the railroad officials that the criminals cannot escape.

Wholesale Smuggling.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26.—The customs officers made a seizure of 3000 cigars on the steamer Newburn this morning. They were found in sacks of tan bark. The officers also made a discovery of twenty tins of opium among the coal on the steamer China. When the soiled clothes were sent ashore from the China to be washed this morning 20 dozen silk handkerchiefs were found among them, and they, with the opium, were confiscated.

The Accomplishments of Tucker.

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 26.—The members of the Lexington bar met to-day and adopted resolutions asking President-elect Cleveland to appoint John Randolph Tucker attorney-general in his cabinet. The resolutions recite Mr. Tucker's achievements as a constitutional lawyer at the bar and in private practice, and in his office as attorney-general of the state.

Weekly Banking Statement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The weekly statement of the associated banks show the following changes: Reserve increase $2,165,425. Loans decrease $1,576,800. Specie increase $1,389,100. Legal tenders increase $453,100. Deposits increase $172,000. The banks holds $8,720,000 in excess of the required twenty-five per cent rule.

Asiatic Cholera.

RANGELEY, Me., Nov. 26.—Dr. O. A. Bridges, a physician of high standing says Mrs. Steven Philbrick is ill here with Asiatic cholera. Mrs. Philbrick was taken ill on Monday afternoon. She appears to be improving. The house has been quarantined.

He believes a step will be taken shortly to bring the report under the notice of the ministry with a request to summon an imperial conference as suggested.

Seeking a Reprieve.

CORNWALL, Ont., Nov. 26.—Slavin, who shot and killed Constable A. Davey, and who is sentenced to be hanged on December 15th, is anxiously awaiting the return of Dr. Bergin from Ottawa, who is at present there with a petition on Slavin's behalf praying a reprieve. He entertains the opinion that the petition will touch the humanity of the Minister of Justice, and that by good conduct he may lessen the term. He is at present enjoying good health and sleeps well but has "soured" on Gaoler McDonald for stopping his evening lunch, which was being sent to him by Mr. S. Crumble, proprietor of the Ottawa Hotel. An extra guard has also been put on with Constable Clark, who affected Slavin's arrest, and who has been his guard since his imprisonment.

Some Crooked Work Spotted.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 26.—Postoffice Inspector Burnham arrived here a few days ago to investigate into the matter of so large a number of letters coming here addressed to James A. Clark & Co., for whom a Miss M. Master acted as agent. Many of the letters were registered, and contained

CANADIAN NOTES.

News by Mail and Wire From All Parts of the Dominion.

Two boys were drowned in the Rideau river at Ottawa while skating.

H. A. Massey of Toronto has given $20,000 to the Wesley College fund in Winnipeg.

Caverly Bros., general merchants in Belleville, have assigned. Their liabilities are placed at $60,000.

Diphtheria is on the increase in Toronto. From January 1st to date 890 cases and 1[illegible] deaths have been reported.

The C.P.R. traffic receipts for the week ending Nov. 21 were $499,000. For the same week last year they were $485,000.

L'Echo des Deux Montagnes, one of the newspapers recently condemned by the Catholic bishops of Quebec, has ceased publication.

The Canadian trade returns for the four months show an increase of eight millions and a half compared with last year. The customs duty increased $611,000.

Children playing with matches caused a fire in the Notre Dame hotel, Montreal, owned by Felix Dane. One room was badly burned, and the two top flats gutted. Loss $15,000, insured.

Herr Lasker finished his engagement at the Montreal Chess Club with a simultaneous exhibition against 26 members of the club, winning 24 games, losing one to Cameron and making a draw with Hubert.

F. S. Clouston, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, who has just returned from England, confirms the statement that the Bank of Montreal has secured the London account of the Dominion Government.

The Kingston News declares that mud was thrown at the hearse containing the remains of the late Mrs. Pigeon, of the Salvation Army, Kingston, by boys while the funeral procession was passing the Christian Brothers school.

Mrs. Pedro Alma, the wife of a clerk in the Ontario Crown Lands department, and a woman of good birth and connection, has been arrested charged with stealing valuable articles from a Toronto lady with whom she boarded last July.

John Mahon, of Brudenel township, Renfrew county, has lost six of his family from diphtheria, and another is not expected to live. One of his sons took the disease in a shanty and returned home, the disease thus being brought to his family.

Delegates representing the conductors, baggagemen and train hands on the Eastern Ontario and Atlantic division of the Canadian Pacific railway, have met at Smith's Falls in secret session, it is understood, to draw up a new schedule of wages to submit to the management.

The Methodist General Conference committee have decided that the next meeting of the General Conference will be held in London in 1893. The strongest competitor was Winnipeg, the vote being 11 to 10 against it. The question of expense decided the committee in favor of London.

The bear movement on the Montreal Stock Exchange is assuming alarming proportions. During the last few days there has been a regular tumble in values, and all the leading stocks show a marked depreciation. The stocks that have shown the greatest decline are cable and gas.

The Ford pit of the Halifax colliery, at Stewarton, has again been abandoned. It is the mine in which so many lives were lost in 1880. Ever since that time efforts have been made to resume work, but with poor success. There are twenty million tons of coal exposed in the mine, which will be destroyed by the fire.

By the flight of Allen McLeod, of Melville, Prince Edward Island, to the United States, a long series of forgeries have been brought to light. He was apparently a prosperous farmer, carried on a large produce business and had many transactions with the banks, always meeting his notes at maturity. It now appears that he retired notes due at Bank of Nova Scotia by getting forged notes discounted at the Merchant's Bank of Prince Edward Island and vice versa.

Further Samoa Troubles.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 25.—The newspaper reports of fighting among the inhabitants of Samoa are all that the office of the state department have seen. They recognize the gravity of the situation as portrayed in the San Francisco dispatches, but cannot imagine why the news of the hostility had not been received from the nearest telegraph station. While they do not doubt the truth of the statements—in fact previous information led them to expect trouble—they say there must be exaggeration somewhere, else they surely would be advised of the situation. The United States has no vessel in the Samoan waters at present, as the Alliance has not yet reached there. The opinion is expressed that had there been a gunboat on the scene the outbreak would not have occurred.

French Intriguing.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Regarding the report that the Panama Railway Co. has served a notice that on and after Feb. 1, 1893, no through bills of lading from the Atlantic to the Pacific from the American representatives of the company will be accepted and that certain traffic arrangements will be terminated, Mr. Houston, secretary of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co., said to a reporter for the United Press: "This is the work of French schemers and speculators, and aims at the ruin of our Pacific trade. The intention is to put all the through freight into the hands of a new and foreign steamship line on the Pacific ocean. I cannot tell you what the name of the new company will be, but we have been looking forward to this step of the French shareholders of the Panama railroad for several months. The Board of railroads in this city claim that they have no regular written contract with the other lines from European ports to Aspinwall." In support of this statement he showed a letter from Mr. Oppenheim, secretary of the Panama Railroad Co., which denied the existence of a contract to carry through freight over the Isthmus between the Hamburg line and the Pacific Mail. "This," he said, "merely shows what confusion their affairs are in, for we have the written contract here in our safe. Even though we show our contracts, the French receiver will not hesitate to do all he can to ruin the business of the American lines, so that some other subsidized line may profit." Mr. Oppenheim, of the Panama railway, said: "We have served such a notice on the Pacific Mail line. It is free to carry all the freight it wants, only not on through bills of lading. Undoubtedly the effect of this will be the establishment of a new steamship line on the Pacific coast."

Steeped in Gross Superstition.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 26.—The granite quarries at Stone Mountain and at Lithonia have agents in the city trying to get workmen. They employ 3000 colored helpers for the granite cutters. Not more than half reported for work last Monday, and day by day since they have dropped off until now not one of them is left. The comet is the cause of this absence from work. The negroes have become so wrought up over the end of the world, as they call it, that they devote themselves to wild religious orgies. A marriage which was to have taken place at the Lithonia colored church last night, was broken off, because, as the groom explained, "what's do use if there is only three days more to live?" Houses are left open and everything is in commotion, but so intense is the belief in the coming of the judgment day that nothing is disturbed. Saturday night they have set down as the time for the end of all things. Reports from other sections of the state show that certain classes of whites are nervous and are not satisfied with the explanation that the coming of the comet will be merely a display of celestial fire works.

An Ancient Aztec Mine.

HERMOSILLO, Mexico, Nov 26.—There is much excitement in the western part of Sonora over the recent discovery of a gold mine of fabulous richness. The find was brought about in a remarkable manner. The fortunate discoverer was Arthur Corna, a merchant of Altair, in this state. About two weeks ago Mr. Corna bought a piece of quartz from an Indian, which contained a little over six pounds of pure gold. A few days later the Indian appeared again with another lot of rich gold bearing quartz which he sold for $30. Mr. Corna then offered the Indian $30 to show him where the gold had been obtained. The offer was accepted and the two went off to the hill, and at a little way from the mine the Indian told Mr. Corna where to go and see the gold for himself. The Indian would not approach the mine because of the tradition that any one of his race showing a mine to a Mexican would die within a few days. Mr. Corna went in and found the rich gold mine which is named the Tedarena. The mine shows evidence of having been worked for centuries, and it is believed to be one of the lost mines of the Aztecs, from which they obtained such wealth centuries ago. Mr. Corna will soon begin working the property on an extensive scale.

A Formality Dispensed With.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Some comment having been made upon the fact that Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British minister to the United States, failed to go through the form of personal investiture upon his being recently honored by the Queen with the insignia of a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, it is officially announced that in consequence of the minister's desire to make an early departure for Washington Her Majesty issued a special dispensation enabling him to wear the insignia without the usual reception at court and kissing of the hand. It is said that this is the first instance in which the Queen has departed from the usual formality, and it is regarded as a mark of especial favor.

General Dodds in Dahomey.

PARIS, Nov. 25.—An official dispatch from General Dodds, commander of the French forces in Dahomey, says that in consequence of the flight of King Behanzin, the chiefs of the country are in a disorganized condition. General Dodds is actively engaged in reinstating the authorities and is taking measures to occupy the coast territory of Dahomey. Six hundred negroes who live north of Abomey have submitted to the French. The health of the French troops is good. Abomey, the capital of Dahomey, which is now in possession of the French, is on the top of a hill 250 feet high. The sanitary condition of the place is good.

AMERICAN PROPOSALS.

The United States Delegates to the Monetary Conference Have Ideas.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 25.—The delegates of the United States at the Monetary Conference in presenting their resolution in favor of an increase of silver in national currencies, set forth, that they considered it due to other nations that an opportunity be afforded them to consider plans for the enlarged use of silver as money, other than the one favored by the United States. "It is our desire and expectation," they said, "that the powers here represented or their delegates will submit proposals to this end, and we desire that these have precedence in the discussions. In addition to any plans of the kind which may be presented, we submit for discussion the following, which have been suggested by recognized authorities. At the same time we submit the general plan of bi-metallism which is favored by the United States:—

"Firstly—The plan of Mr. Moritz Levy, proposed to the monetary conference of 1881.

"Secondly—The plan of the late Adolf Soetbeer (see Vienna Neue Frie Presse, Sept. 30, 1892; Hamburg Borsenhalle, Aug. 22, 1892; Pioneer Mail, Allahabad, Oct. 13, 1892).

"Lastly: We present the plan proposed by ourselves as delegates of the United States—the re-establishment and maintenance of a fixed parity between gold and silver, and the continued use of both as coined money of full debt paying power would be productive of important results to the world. These ends will be accomplished by the removal of the legal restrictions now existing and the coinage of silver into full legal tender money, restoring by international agreement the parity of value between the metals, which existed prior to 1873, at such a rate as the conference may decide upon. The essentials of such an international arrangement should be the unrestricted coinage of both gold and silver into money of full debt paying power, fixing a ratio in the coinage between the metals, and the establishment of a uniform charge, if any, to the public for minting gold and silver coins."

The plan proposed by the United States commissioners cannot be discussed and pronounced upon until many other plans shall have been disposed of. The general attitude of the conference, however, leaves little doubt that the American plan will be rejected. The German and Austrian delegates are strongly against any measure which would necessitate any change of moment in existing legislation on the money question, and Sir Rivers Wilson, one of Great Britain's delegates, started for London to-night, presumably to get additional instructions from his government.

An Ill-Assorted Union.

DUBLIN, Ga., Nov. 26.—Joe Bennet, a rich citizen of Lothair in Montgomery county, is lying at the point of death, and it is charged that his young wife gave him poison in a cup of tea to rid herself of him. Bennet is 70 years old, Mrs. Bennet only 20, and a handsome and vivacious blonde. The marriage, which occurred years ago, was never happy. A year after the marriage Mrs. Bennet and a married physician named Thomas became intimate. The old husband thought to retain the love of his wife by willing her all his property and insuring his life in her favor for $10,000, but without success. It is believed that Mrs. Bennet and the doctor have been trying to get Bennet out of the way. Last Sunday morning they drove the old man from his home and he was compelled to ask neighbors for shelter. He returned to his house on Tuesday evening. The authorities are investigating the charge made against his wife.

St. Louis' Boot and Shoe Trade.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 26.—Returns for the first ten months of 1892 show another extraordinary increase in the boot and shoe trade of St. Louis. In spite of the large increase in this line of manufacture St. Louis received from Boston during the month 322,309 cases of shoes as compared with 271,000 shipped to Chicago, 240,000 to New York, 161,000 to Philadelphia, 100,000 to Cincinnati, 50,000 to Cleveland, and 30,000 to Kansas City. This return shows St. Louis to be the largest shoe distributing point in the United States west of Boston, and considering the fact that twelve years ago the city handled such a small number of boots and shoes that the total scarcely figured in the returns, its present position is quite remarkable.

A Modern Steamship.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 25.—The German steamship Furst Bismark, from New York Nov. 17th for Genoa, arrived here this morning. The time of her passage was seven days, six hours and forty-eight minutes, thus beating the best previous record to Gibraltar by nearly two hours.

What Militarism Means.

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—During the last few days four recruits have committed suicide at Strasburg with the apparent intention of escaping the severity and cruelty of the drill sergeant.

The Philosopher's Stone.

Every one has now a chance to buy a Rigby waterproof coat, and ladies may buy the cloth for a spring ulster.

Medical Congress in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 26.—The delegates to the twentieth annual convention of the American Public Health Association and International Medical Congress, to a total of nearly three hundred, arrived here to-day. They were met by a local committee of prominent physicians and representatives of other callings, headed by Dr. Eduardo Liceaga, and who extended to them a hearty welcome to the city. The ladies of the party were taken in hand by a committee of American women now residing in Mexico. There will be brief business sessions for several days, after which the delegates will make several side trips, and will also be received by President Diaz at the Castle of Chapultepec.

OUR UNION LETTER.

School Muddle Growing Thicker—Better Times Owing to the Mines Working.

UNION, Nov. 25.—One hundred and fifty people came up on the Isabel to work in the mines. The San Mateo, capable of carrying 4500 tons, is now loading, and Union now has its old-time appearance. The Lake pit is being worked to its full capacity and the other mines are to be opened out.

The inconvenience of having the Joan laid up for repairs was felt by the Union people last week, the Isabel taking about five hours' longer on the trip. While waiting for the boat on Wednesday, J. B. McLean was attacked by a Chinaman, but the sturdy Scott soon overcame his heathen antagonist.

Messrs. Grant & McGregor, the enterprising contractors, are opening up a furniture and undertaking establishment. A two story building, 28x60, is being erected and the first consignment arrived by the Isabel. The business will no doubt flourish, as Messrs. Grant & McGregor are shrewd business men.

Rev. J. H. White was here last week, the guest of Rev. Mr. Robson. He also paid Cape Mudge missionary station a visit.

The Comox school muddle is more of a muddle than ever. S. Creech, the Government agent, has come out strongly against the Government. He strongly condemns its high-handed actions in dealing with Mr. Muir, and is now a school trustee, supporting Mr. Muir. It is not expected that he will now hold the office of Government agent long. The Davie clique will find means of getting rid of him.

John Denton has returned to Union from Victoria. He will be welcomed by the Sunday school, of which he is superintendent.

Alex. Grant was down in Victoria this week making arrangements to open up his furniture business here.

NANAIMO NOTES.

An Alderman Held Up—Surveyors Return—A Postoffice Wanted.

NANAIMO, Nov. 26.—Mr. A. S. Going, C.E., of Victoria, returned from Comox yesterday, where he has spent the last three weeks in making surveys for the Canada Western Railway. He will organize a large survey party for the purpose of making a systematic survey of the proposed route.

While Ald. Quennell was returning from Cedar district on Thursday night he was stopped by an amateur highwayman and told to throw up his hands. Instead of being surprised the jovial alderman informed the would-be desperado that he had stopped the wrong man, and whipping up his horse he took his leave.

Mr. W. Vanhouten was united in marriage to Miss Lizzie Wilkinson at the manse to-day by the Rev. D. A. McRae. Quite a circle of friends witnessed the ceremony and congratulations were freely bestowed upon the young couple, who left on the afternoon train for the capital.

The French syndicate at Northfield still continues in trouble. The store is closed and M. Lefevre, the assignee, is in possession. A general meeting of the members will be held on Sunday, when matters may reach some issue.

A novel kind of entertainment is being gotten up in St. Paul's Institute for about the third Tuesday in December, and as the object of the entertainment is a deserving one every friend and member of the Institute should not fail to put in an appearance. The custodian has worked hard to keep the hall in the best of condition, and it is felt by the executive committee that his labors should not go unrewarded. Mrs. Dr. Davis has charge of the arrangements.

A social will be given in the Presbyterian church on Monday night in honor of the anniversary of the church.

Besides the six vessels now lying in the harbor, six more are daily expected and the prospect for coal seems to be brighter than it has ever been known before in Nanaimo.

Snow lies on the ground about two inches thick and still continues to fall. A severe winter is looked forward to here.

W. H. Curran, of Oyster Bay, returned from a prospecting trip up north yesterday. He says he has laid the foundation for another fortune.

Some of the settlers around Oyster Bay have been talking about petitioning for a postoffice, as now they have to walk to Chemainus, about eight miles. Some of them get their mail sent down once a week from Cedar postoffice. They think if they could get a postoffice near the mouth of the bay, they would be able to get their mail two or three times a week, delivered from the train which runs past there.

American Vines in France.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The Advertiser's Paris correspondent says Count Werde, managing director of the Veuve-Clicquot champagne manufacturing house, strongly opposes the introduction of American vines to replenish the loss caused by ravages of phylloxera. The majority of his colleagues on the local defense committee support him in this stand. M. Grandeau and Vaney, of the Faculty of Sciences, and Emile Blanchard, of the Paris Academy of Sciences, support Count Werde. Blanchard declared that wherever American vines are introduced phylloxera appears, and M. Grandeau says that calcareous soil and the method of culture are unsuited to American vines. The Government subsidy of 15,000 francs has been transferred to the Marne owners for testing, under the direction of M. Blouvex, one of the most competent of the upholders of the American vine.

Boucicault's Best Play.

"After Dark," the attraction which comes to the Victoria Theatre next Wednesday evening, the 30th, was written by the late Dion Boucicault when at his best. Indeed, nothing from the pen of the gifted playwright has met with more appreciation than "After Dark." Full of startling situations, live romance, villainly and generous impulse, it never fails in interest and commands that sympathy which unprotected and suffering virtue always calls for, and the condemnation which villainly, vice and crime deserve. The company is said to be a competent one, and the press all over the United States has given the performance an excellent certificate of character and is loud in its praises of some of the sensational situations, such as the rescue from drowning in the water scene; the underground railway scene, where an unconscious man is saved from being mangled under the wheels of an engine and train; the concert hall scene, in which are introduced a number of vaudeville artists whose exhibitions are in themselves a series of surprises. A gambling hell, which is raided by the police and which immediately undergoes a most surprising transformation, is one of the features of the evening.

Police Court.

Thos. Matheson was charged with the theft of a silver watch valued at $21, from James Johnson, Johnson street. Remanded till Monday. Lew Russell was fined $5 for being drunk and raising a disturbance at the Delmonico yesterday afternoon. Thos. M. Grant, charged with the theft of a trunk, was remanded till Monday. Geo. Buttery was fined $5 for infraction of the street by-law.

The case against saloonkeeper Howell for infraction of the revenue by-law, was withdrawn. Howell was taxed $2.50 costs. The court said that this manner of dealing with such cases was establishing a bad precedent. He was speaking in a private capacity.

Mary Carse charged Elizabeth Harris with cutting her coat. The coat was cut by the Harris woman at St. George's Inn. The Carse woman and the Harris woman had a dispute over $10, which Mrs. Carse said Mrs. Harris owed her for board. Mrs. Harris had boarded with Mrs. Carse before her marriage. It was proved that the coat was cut, but the case was dismissed as one for a civil court.

Some More Moral Depravity.

It is curious how the defalcation of Florian Waldeck, alias Wolf, the San Francisco confidential clerk, held here for extradition, has grown. When he fled Kahn & Co., his employers, announced that he had stolen about $3000 each year for four years, or about $13,000 in all. The Victoria papers increased it to $20,000, and then one bolder than the others gives it out as $25,000. Next the Seattle Telegraph in a special from Victoria says it is $250,000. If this keeps on there will be no money left in San Francisco. The glowing imagination of the Seattle Telegraph's "moral depravity" Victoria correspondent may be trusted to put a gilt edge on the plainest yarns. His Ananias-like flight respecting the Maggie Mac still holds the record as the boss whopper of coast journalism, but the public loveth a cheerful liar.

The Undercurrent of Humanity.

A dark-complexioned young man, with heavy moustache, and neatly attired, drove up to one of the "houses" on Broughton street last night. A woman, young and pretty, was with him. An hour afterwards the services of the police were asked. The woman said that the man had promised to marry her. She found that he had brought her to a house of prostitution and was going to leave her there. She asked the police to release her and Jailer Allen went to the house and secured the release of the woman. The dark-complexioned young man and the keeper of the house were seen to board the City of Kingston. The young woman also took passage for the Sound, but not in their company. The house is now upon the hands of its original owner, Della Wentworth.

Victoria West.

A large number of residences, small and large, are being erected in Victoria West. Dr. Lewis Hall is building a very handsome one near the Victoria West Presbyterian church, and W. J. Mable's new house on Russell street, is an ornament to that portion of the city. Building operations are also very brisk on Craigflower road.

Borne to the Grave.

A large cortege followed the remains of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Williams to the grave yesterday afternoon. The funeral service was said by Archdeacon Scriven assisted by Canon Beanlands and Rev. J. B. Hewetson. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Thomas Shotbolt, P. T. Johnston, A. Wilson, Dr. Pope, J. J. Austin and Wm. Wilson.

Annual Subscriptions Needed.

As all the money left by the late J. G. Taylor to the Protestant Orphans' Home has been set aside for the new building, the trustees will have to take up the annual subscriptions for the current expenses of the institution. The collectors will commence work next week.

The Poultry and Dog Show.

At a meeting of the British Columbia Dog, Poultry and Pet Stock Association held last evening, it was decided to hold the annual show on January 17, 18, 19 and 20. The prize list is now being prepared, and another of the executive has been called for next Wednesday evening to make further arrangements.

Liked on the Sound.

Seattle has taken very kindly to football, and there are several clubs already in the field. The big team defeated Tacoma Thursday, 8 to 0; most of the men on the two teams are old college players.

Trimen, Scholefield, Hartnagel, Johnston, Futcher, Short, Goddard and Holmes.

THE RING.

FOSTER'S BOXING TOURNAMENT.

This evening at the Imperial Theatre Professor Robert Foster will manage an amateur boxing competition for medals in the different weights from heavy to feather. Professor Richards, the modern Goliath, will toy with weights ranging from 100 to 1000 pounds, bend railway iron over his muscle, tie knots in steel bars and break horse shoes like an ordinary person breaking a pretzel. Corporal Hamilton of C Battery will swing clubs, and Professor Cockburn Thompson, late of the London Aquarium, will favor with a few operatic selections. The entertainment will be conducted on strictly orderly principles and no slugging will be permitted. Excellent boxers from the navy, C Battery and the city will try their luck. The judging will be fairly done and the winners will win on their merits. Tickets for the show are on sale at Kerr & Begg's bookstore, Government street.

This is from Georgia.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Nov. 26.—News has just been received here of a phenomenon in the shape of an extraordinary infant born near Grab Orchard, Lee Co., Ga. The child was well developed, had a full and beautiful set of teeth, and long flowing hair of a sombre hue. It was exceedingly pretty and seemed to be possessed of all the mental faculties of maturity. In a clear voice it said, "Time is short." It then closed its eyes and died. This, together with the appearance of a comet which is supposed to carry death and destruction in its wake, has created considerable consternation in that community.

By Sheriff's Sale.

The stock of stoves, plumbing and gas fittings of J. L. Stamford were sold this morning by Deputy Sheriff Hinkson Siddall. The purchaser was W. Braden who paid $7000 for the stock.

THE NANAIMO COAL | THE SOUTH FIELD COAL

(Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes). (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL

House and Steam Coal are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, high Illuminating power unequalled by any other bituminous Gas Coal in the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used by all the leading Steamship Lines on the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL, which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite, especially for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal; makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean Steamers.

THE MINING LAW.

The men of West Kootenay seem to be very much in favor of a change in the mining law, most of them pronouncing for a return to the act of 1891, with some amendments. As summarized by the Miner, the speeches and resolutions at various meetings held throughout the district all made for this change. One of the amendments to the law most generally and strenuously insisted on is a requirement that mineral be found "in place" before a prospector is permitted to locate. This principle, it seems, is also favored by the East Kootenay miners. But there are some points on which all the members are not agreed. For instance, the 1500 feet square claim is roundly condemned in some quarters and as vigorously supported in others. One meeting of miners declared that the law should require marking posts to be set along the line of the mineral ledge, while at another this idea was ridiculed. There is also a wide difference of opinion as to the relative convenience of claims bounded by vertical planes and those conveying extralateral rights. With all this diversity among the miners themselves it will puzzle the Legislature to amend the law in a satisfactory manner. There does not seem much chance of harmonizing the miners' views completely, and naturally the question will be asked, whose view is to prevail? However, there is a very general call for changes in the law, so the subject is sure to come before the Assembly at its next session. Perhaps some satisfactory scheme of amendment will be evolved in the course of the discussion.

PROVINCIAL LANDS.

It appears that Premier Davie has been unable to effect one of the most important purposes of his trip to Ottawa, namely, the settlement of the railway belt dispute. The absence of the Minister of the Interior from Ottawa was the cause of the failure. This is all on the authority of the Vancouver News-Advertiser's Ottawa correspondent. It is very unfortunate that the dispute about the boundaries of the railway belt cannot be terminated. As most of our readers know, the Dominion Government claims all land lying within 20 miles of the railway, or to put it in another way, that the boundaries of the belt should be completely parallel with the railway. The province contends that the belt should be one with a general width of 40 miles. At several points there are considerable tracts of land involved in the dispute, and in some cases settlers who have been in the country for years are unable to get titles to their farms. A portion of the Spallumcheen valley is in this position. Such a state of affairs is decidedly unfavorable to the introduction of new settlers into the province. The News-Advertiser while commenting on the existence of this drawback, takes occasion to call for a general reform of the system under which the lands of the province are administered. "We do not," it says, "overlook the peculiar difficulties which present themselves in a country presenting the physical characteristics which are found here, as compared with the ease with which an open prairie country can be surveyed and subdivided. But we think that there is ample room or opportunity for very great improvements in the present system. When a newcomer goes to a provincial land office to obtain information as to where he can secure land on which to locate, it is rather discouraging to him to be told that if he will go out and hunt up a piece of land that he thinks will suit him, he can then come back and the obliging officials will be pleased to tell him whether it is still open for settlement or not. It is not surprising that many never come back, but rather betake themselves across the boundary, where at any United States land office they are able immediately to obtain information as to what lands are open for settlement and on what terms they can secure them." There is much talk about the need of a more vigorous immigration policy, but a change of immigration policy would do comparatively little for this province while its system of land administration is a direct deterrent to immigrants. With proper management of its public lands, and some relief from the serious burden of Dominion taxation, this province would secure plenty of immigrants without any extra effort being made to bring them here.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Chapleau will not proceed to "smash Confederation" for five years at least.

Premier Thompson is the gentleman who at Petrolia told the people that the Government had no new policy to formulate, no new departure to announce. Which is to say that the change of Sir Johns will leave the ills of the country unremedied.

It is stated that Sir John Thompson is being urged not to overtax his strength by remaining Minister of Justice as well as Premier. The advice seems good. Even a man so robust as Sir John would be likely to break down under so heavy a double burden. And the duties of the Premiership will be a little more onerous than usual during the next year or two.

Mr. Clarke Wallace and Dr. Montague are mentioned as possible Cabinet material, probably as a joke. It might be deemed good policy to have an Orange leader like Mr. Wallace in the ministry as a counterpoise to the Catholic Premier, but that would be the only reason for his appointment. As for Dr. Montague—well, the mention of his name must be meant for a joke or for a sop to his very pronounced self-conceit.

The Mail:—Mr. Edgar declines, as is indicated by his letter to the prosecuting counsel, to co-operate with them in the investigation before the Royal Commission of the charges against Sir Adolphe Caron. Whether or not this is good policy under the circumstances, it must be admitted that nothing material has occurred to destroy the force of the objections Mr. Edgar raised at the outset against the method of procedure. If at the beginning of the trial he would not assume the responsibility of an indictment he did not frame, it is not remarkable that he will not do so at the close. He intimates that another effort will be made next session of Parliament to have an investigation of the original charges in the usual way. If this is done, Mr. Bowell's efforts to shield his colleague will be shown to have been very poor tactics, for they have given Mr. Edgar an advantage he did not possess before. There have now been just enough disclosures to make a complete investigation absolutely necessary.

C.P.R. FREIGHT CARRYING.

Surprising Statistics of the Great Road for the Past Year.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—Some interesting facts have recently been brought out by returns issued by the C.P. Railway Company showing the extent to which this railway has been competing with American roads for the transportation of United States products and merchandise coming from points in China and Japan, via British Columbia, and goods imported into the United States from China and Japan, via the C.P.R., also the quantity of American merchandise transported via the C.P.R. from eastern points to the Pacific coast and vice versa. The total quantity of freight thus carried by the C.P.R. during the year ending June 30th, 1892, was 37,254 tons, of which 11,614 was imported to the United States from China and Japan through British Columbia, via the C.P.R. to points in the United States, 12,034 tons representing the quantity of goods exported from the United States through British Columbia, via the C.P.R. to China and Japan, 6946 tons representing the quantity of merchandise via the C.P.R. from eastern points in the United States to United States points on the Pacific coast, and 6646 tons representing the volume of goods transported via the C.P.R. from the United States. Of the total quantity thus imported from China, 43 per cent. represents the quantity of tea brought into the United States by this route, while of the United States exports going through this channel to China and Japan 74 per cent of the quantity thus carried represents flour shipments from the Pacific coast, sent through British Columbia to China and Japan, and via the C.P.R. Some facts of interests are thus presented for the consideration of those who are advocating a rescinding of the bonding privileges regarding transportation of freight from an American point to another via Canadian lines.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

To THE EDITOR:—In the captain's report regarding the loss of the ship Ericsson he mentions that the crew were unable to handle the ship. I, as one of the crew, ask him, through the kindness of your paper, was it incompetency, or was the ship properly managed or was the cause through his carelessness? He left us without a cent here in Victoria, and only for the kindness of the Seamen's and Sealers' union we would have gone without shelter or anything to eat, since we have been ashore. Signed,

MATTERS THAT CONCERN BABY.

Mothers are always interested in matters that pertain to baby's welfare. Nothing is too good for baby; the little darling is mother's constant study and care.

The mother has many important matters to consider which tend to baby's health and comfort. The most important should be the child's dieting. Many estimable mothers err seriously in the selection of a proper food, when baby cannot be nursed.

These improper foods cause impaired digestion, weakness and irritation of the stomach and bowels; and often bring on fatal troubles.

These serious consequences are always avoided when pure and life-giving Lactated Food is used for baby. The baby, when fed on Lactated Food, soon becomes strong, hearty and happy; it sleeps well, and all around is joy and pleasure.

The mother who does not procure Lactated Food for her babe, is certainly retarding its growth and progress. If such mothers wish to give this grand food a trial before adopting it permanently, they are requested to send at once to the Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, and a full sized can will be sent free of charge. When once used this food always becomes the family favorite.

SOME SOFT SNAPS.

They Existed in England Under Norman Kings.

The earlier Norman kings lay on straw, and land was held at Aylesbury on condition of finding this commodity for the royal couch. Some of the old tenures were exceedingly comfortable things. The service was nominal and the pay was gold. The king's champion, who rode into Westminster hall to challenge all comers who disputed his master's title, was handsomely rewarded. One of the Russians obtained a grant of land in Dorsetshire for putting away the pieces after playing at chess with the king.

A gentleman at Stafford, who held the king's stirrup when he came to that town enjoyed a perpetual grant of a fish pond. Some obtained grants on condition of paying a daily paternoster for the throne. Others gave an annual snowball, or an annual rose in exchange for most substantial privileges.

At Norwich, when Norwich was a fishing station, though it is 18 miles from the sea, there was by indenture, an annual delivery of herrings to the king. A certain number of fish from the first yield were put in 23 "pyes" well flavored in spices and sent up to town. It was understood that there should be at least five herrings in every pye, but occasionally the officers of the royal household had to complain of short measure.

The wolf and bear hunting tenures involved by no means a nominal service in the early part of our history, nor could the gentlemen at Hants be said to have a sinecure whose business it was to "keep in order the female domestic servants and dismember malefactors." The latter must have been by far the lightest task. Women are always hard to manage until some one invented the art of treating them well.—London News.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

IN A CAPSIZED VESSEL.

The Terrible Experience of a Sea Captain and One of His Crew.

London Evening Journal.]

No seaman ever knew a more terrible and unique experience than that which fell to the lot of Captain James Morse, of Phipsburg, an experience that thrilled the sea-going world at the time. Captain Morse had been overtaken by a terrible gale, and while "lying to" one of the tremendous waves which plunged along mast high "tripped" the vessel and she was instantly turned bottom up. Captain Morse and a companion were in the cabin at the time, and as the deck was several feet below the surface of the sea they were imprisoned there. They were in absolute darkness, standing in water up to their waists, seemingly helpless and doomed.

But Captain Morse and his companion were not the kind of men to surrender to the seemingly inevitable until forced to do so. Groping about they found a hatchet and decided to hew their way to the upper air. Knowing that as soon as an opening was made the air, which was then shut in by the arch of the inverted hull, would escape and the water take its place, they were obliged to work with the greatest caution lest they make a fatal leak before there was a hole large enough to permit of their escape and so be drowned like rats imprisoned here.

For days they worked, cutting away the ceiling and planks until they could catch the gleam of light through the thin wood in one place, then cutting again until another part was similarly cleared and so on until the light, passing through the slight surface, marked the lines of a square place large enough to admit the free passage of a man's body. Then, when every possible preparation had been made and there seemed to be nothing more that they could do to insure the success of the final move, they knocked out the obstructing square and crawled into the daylight as the water, freed from the opposition of the compressed air followed them, and the vessel sank lower in the water until the natural buoyancy of the timber checked her.

There they were, perched on the curved surface of a capsized wreck, drifting at the mercy of the seas. But they had no idea of surrender. Having escaped to the light they at once set to work to build up a sort of signal station to attract the attention of any vessel that might chance to come that way, and upon the top they fixed a staff from which fluttered a signal—a shirt.

Fortunately a brick-laden schooner passing that way sighted the signal of distress, bore down upon and rescued the men, who were almost exhausted by their days of suffering there, their cell in the darkness; but they soon recovered, and no one talking with the captain to-day would ever suspect that he had once dug his way out of the sepulchre of the sea.

MOTHERS IN FICTION.

An Important One, and One Which Has Great Effect.

It would really be more proper to say the mother who is not in fiction, for no fact is more distinctly impressed upon the reader of romance than that the mother is a superfluous and troublesome creature with whom the novelist will have nothing to do. This is especially true of the mother of the heroine, for where, in the world of books, can we find a charming and interesting young female who has retained her maternal guardian until she stands on the threshold of womanhood? Let any lover of romance—and who does not love an enchanting story, well told, that deals with the passions and the frailties, the nobility and the depravity of humankind?—let such of these review the entire field of English fiction, since it had its birth in the daring conception of De Foe nearly two centuries ago, and bear witness to the cold-blooded manner in which the mother is almost invariably removed from the scene by disease, by accident, by violence—it matters not how.

The one effort of the novelist seems to be to effectually and finally dispose of her. Fielding, Richardson and Smollet, the earliest English novelists and founders of the modern school, were quick to discover the inutility of the mother, and after one or two futile experiments, sternly discarded her. Walter Scott, canny with the wisdom of his race, made the same discovery at the beginning of his literary career, and his heroines are almost without exception motherless from an early age. Di Vernon, Rowena, and Rebecca, Lucy Bertram, the Lady of the Lake, the Fair Maid of Perth, Constance—all were left motherless in infancy. Charles Lever and Bulwer lean to the same fondness for orphaned or motherless young heroines. Thackeray gives a little longer tenure of life to the mothers, not for the sake of romance, but rather in the face of its demands, and because he so loved to delineate the foibles and weaknesses of the race. Dickens, foremost and greatest of novelists in his variety of character and power and originality of plot rarely drew a mother except to caricature her, and not one of his more notable heroines but was either an orphan or possessed only of a father. Little Dorrit, Florence Dombey, Pleasant Riderhood, Jenny Wren, Ruth Chuzzlewitt, Little Nell, Dot in the "Cricket on the Hearth," both of the leading juveniles — neither could be designated as heroines—in "Great Expectations," and the three distinct and never-to-be-forgotten drawings of lovable women in "David Copperfield," were motherless.

The lesser novelists of the same school followed in the master's footsteps in this if in no other direction, and the few really notable romances that have since been published by English and American writers have the same characteristic. Lorna Doone, the heroine of Blackmore's greatest production, was motherless from infancy. The charming Princess of Thule had always been motherless. Ramona could not remember her mother. Miss Phelps, sympathetic humanitarian that she is, remorselessly murders the mother in her strongest tales. Mrs. Whitney, who, more than any other, has sought to draw beautiful and attractive pictures of the domestic life of the ordinary American household, repeatedly sacrifices the mother in an "early decline," no doubt with regret and tears. Even Howells, self-assertive "realist" that he is, violates statistical accuracy in the proportion of mothers whom he permits to survive the trials of child-rearing.

A HAPPY FAMILY.

A DEAR BOY IS RESCUED FROM DANGER!

A Loving Mother Tells Her Story!

A Powerful Warning to Parents!

Few Canadian artists have earned a more thorough and lasting reputation as soloists and teachers of vocal music than Mrs. A. J. Lawrence, of Montreal. This lady graduated under a celebrated German professor of vocal music.

Mrs. Lawrence is thoroughly familiar with the true Italian method; she has, however, very advanced ideas which are entirely in keeping with true progress in the divine art. She has adopted many of the best rules and methods of the most popular masters, thereby enabling her to give pupils the best and most improved culture in the formation of tone and technique, which are essential in finished and artistic singing.

Although busily engaged from day to day in the grand and noble profession of music, Mrs. Lawrence devotes time with little success; the irritating and dangerous malady seemed to cling with an enduring tenacity that baffled every endeavor to eradicate it. For a long time she feared that the treacherous disease would assert its power in other complicating ways, and that her boy would grow up disfigured and bearing a great and heavy burden.

Mrs. Lawrence said her attention was peculiarly drawn to Paine's Celery Compound, and the wonderful results that came from its use in her father's home. She therefore decided to have her boy use it, and test its powers in a serious case of Eczema.

Mrs. Lawrence seemed enthusiastic when speaking of the grand work that followed the use of Paine's Celery Compound. She declared that her most sanguine expectations were more than realized, as every trace of trouble had been rooted out, and her boy's general health was better than ever before.

Our representative had the pleasure of a talk with Master James Lawrence, who is a handsome and bright lad of almost ten years. The little fellow joyously said, when asked to show his hands and wrists, "Oh, they are all right now; Paine's Celery Compound cured me!" Not a trace of disease, nor any mark of trouble could be seen; the skin was natural, soft and ruddy; and had the glow of perfect health.

Mrs. Lawrence expressed the hope that parents would give greater attention to those distressing skin troubles that has heretofore been given. She believes firmly that Paine's Celery Compound is the only medicine in the all necessary time and attention to a very interesting family with which God has blessed her. The light of her eye is the first to rise, and very often the last to set in her home. As a mother she has that enduring tenderness for her children that transcends all other affections of the heart; and as the tendrils cling close to the vine, so in like manner do the Lawrence children cling to a dear and loving mother. Mrs. Lawrence's power for good is not wholly confined to her home; this power reaches forth and takes in all good and noble works of charity.

Mrs. Lawrence, a few days ago, quite unsolicited, sent to the proprietors of Paine's Celery Compound a most interesting and very flattering testimonial in favor of Canada's renowned and popular medicine. A testimonial coming from such a source conveyed the idea that a wonderful cure had been effected. Of course the testimonial was sufficiently pointed and full of meaning; the heartfelt and thankful words indicated plainly that disease and trouble had been effectually banished. Notwithstanding the strong and forcible declarations, it was deemed advisable to send one of our representatives to interview the lady.

Mrs. Lawrence was found at home and at leisure last evening, and received our representative with great cordiality and kindness, and was quite willing to speak about her dear boy's recovery from a most serious and dangerous disease.

Mrs. Lawrence informed our representative that her object in writing a testimonial and letter of thanks was done with a view of benefiting others who were now vainly looking to other agencies and medicines for a cure. Her boy had suffered from Eczema for nearly five years, the trouble showing itself principally on the hand wrists. All that science and medicine could command, had been tried from time to world that can give satisfactory results and bring a perfect cure. She has kindly permitted us to publish her letter of testimony, and also allowed us to use her boy's portrait. Under date of Oct. 28th, 1892, Mrs. Lawrence writes:—

"I am very pleased to inform you of an interesting cure wrought by Paine's Celery Compound in the case of my little boy.

For months past I have been pained to see his hands disfigured with eczema, which at times caused him much suffering.

The grand results attending the use of the Compound by my father last spring, prompted me to test its qualities with children. To my exceeding great joy I could see a marked improvement after a short course of treatment; and, in a few weeks there was no trace of the disease to be seen about him; at the same time his general health and appetite have been improved. Seeing that experienced mothers often informed me that my boy would always have this disease to annoy him and to suffer from, it affords me all the greater pleasure to inform you of the cure."

As announced in previous issues of this paper, the proprietors of Paine's Celery Compound are willing and anxious to do a good work amongst a class of worthy people who are suffering, but who have not the means of procuring the great medicine. Wonderful results are reported from all quarters; and hundreds of estimable people are being rescued from disease and death. This mode of reaching poor but worthy sufferers is commended by our best clergymen and others, and will be continued without regard to cost. To obtain the benefit of the great free offer, it is only necessary to send in a recommendation from a clergyman, mayor, reeve, justice of the peace or postmaster. ANTISEPTIC.

Do you know what an ANTISEPTIC is? We will tell you. It is a medicine or application which arrests decay or putrefaction and heals. The application of antiseptic preparations has made it possible for surgeons to do what was never dreamed of, because antiseptics stop all formation of corrupt matter. We do the same in our Cough Cure.

A Cough or other Lung Disease speedily causes decay. The best proof of this is the putrid phlegm which you spit up. Cubb's Cough Cure IMMEDIATELY arrests this decay and the cure follows with surprising rapidity. THE RACE FOR GOLD.

Dr. Talmage's Scathing Rebuke of Modern Worshippers of Golden Calves.

Present Day Idolatries Pointed Out and His Hearers Warned Against Them.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 13.—The subject of discourse chosen by Rev. Dr. Talmage for his first sermon after the national election was one peculiarly appropriate to the money making spirit of the times. It was "The Golden Calf," the text selected being Exodus xxxii. 20, "And he took the calf which they had made and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder and strewed it upon the water and made the children of Israel drink of it."

People will have a god of some kind, and they prefer one of their own making. Here come the Israelites, breaking off their golden earrings, the men as well as the women, for in those times there were masculine as well as feminine decorations. Where did they get these beautiful gold earrings, coming up as they did from the desert? Oh, they "borrowed" them from the Egyptians when they left Egypt. These earrings are piled up into a pyramid of glittering beauty. "Any more earrings to bring?" says Aaron. None. Fire is kindled, the earrings are melted and poured into a mold, not of an eagle or a war charger, but of a calf; the gold cools off, the mold is taken away, and the idol is set upon its four legs.

An altar is built in front of the shining calf. Then the people throw up their arms and gyrate and shriek and dance mightily and worship. Moses has been six weeks on Mount Sinai, and he comes back and hears the howling and sees the dancing of these golden calf fanatics, and he loses his patience, and he takes the two plates of stone on which were written the Ten Commandments and flings them so hard against a rock that they split all to pieces. When a man gets mad he is very apt to break all the Ten Commandments.

Moses rushes in, and he takes this calf god and throws it into a hot fire until it is melted all out of shape, and then pulverizes it—not by the modern appliance of nitromuriatic acid, but by the ancient appliance of niter, or by the old fashioned file. He makes for the people a most nauseating draft. He takes this pulverized golden calf and throws it in the only brook which is accessible, and the people are compelled to drink of that brook or not drink at all. But they did not drink all the glittering stuff thrown on the surface. Some of it flows on down the surface of the brook to the river, and then flows on down the river to the sea, and the sea takes it up and bears it to the mouth of all the rivers, and when the tides set back the remains of this golden calf are carried up into the Hudson, and the East river, and the Thames, and the Clyde, and the Tiber, and men go out and they skim the glittering surface, and they bring it ashore, and they make another golden calf, and California and Australia break off their golden earrings to augment the pile, and in the fires of financial excitement and struggle all these things are melted together, and while we stand looking and wondering what will come of it, lo! we find that the golden calf of Israelitish worship has become the golden calf of European and American worship.

THE MODERN IDOLATRY.

I shall describe to you the god spoken of in the text, his temple, his altar of sacrifice, the music that is made in his temple, and then the final breaking up of the whole congregation of idolaters.

Put aside this curtain, and you see the golden calf of modern idolatry. It is not like other idols, made out of stocks or stones, but it has an ear so sensitive that it can hear the whispers on Wall street and Third street and State street, and the footfalls in the bank of England, and the flutter of a Frenchman's heart on the Bourse. It has an eye so keen that it can see the rust on the farm of Michigan wheat, and the insect in the Maryland peach orchard, and the trampled grain under the hoof of the Russian war charger.

It is so mighty that it swings any way it will the world's shipping. It has its foot on all the merchantmen and the steamers. It started the American civil war, and under God stopped it, and it decided the Turko-Russian contest. One broker in September, 1860, in New York, shouted, "One hundred and sixty for a million!" and the whole continent shivered. This golden calf of the text has its right front foot in New York, its left front foot in Chicago, its right back foot in Charleston, its left back foot in New Orleans, and when it shakes itself it shakes the world. Oh, this is a mighty god—the golden calf of the world's worship!

But every god must have its temple, and this golden calf of the text is no exception. Its temple is vaster than St. Paul's of the English, and St. Peter's of the Italians, and the Alhambra of the Spaniards, and the Parthenon of the Greeks, and the Taj Mahal of the Hindoos, and all the other cathedrals put together. Its pillars are grooved and fluted with gold, and its ribbed arches are hovering gold, and its chandeliers are descending gold, and its floors are tessellated gold, and its vaults are crowded heaps of gold, and its spires and domes are soaring gold, and its organ pipes are resounding gold, and its pedals are tramping gold, and its stops pulled out are flashing gold, while standing at the head of the temple, as the presiding deity, are the hoofs and shoulders and eyes and ears and nostrils of the calf of gold.

THE CRUELTY OF AVARICE.

Further, every god must have not only its temple, but its altar of sacrifice, and this golden calf of the text is no exception. Its altar is not made out of stone, as other altars, but out of counting room desks and fireproof safes, and it is a broad, a long, a high altar. The victims sacrificed on it are innumerable. What does this god care about the groans and struggles of the victims before it! With cold, metallic eye it looks on and yet lets them suffer. Oh, heaven and earth, what an altar! What a sacrifice of body, mind and soul! The physical health of a great multitude is flung on this sacrificial altar. They cannot sleep, and they take chloral and morphine and intoxicants.

Some of them struggle in a nightmare of stocks, and at one o'clock in the morning suddenly rise up shouting, "A thousand shares of railroad stock—one hundred and eight and a half; take it!" until the whole family is affrighted, and the speculators fall back on their pillows and sleep until they are awakened again by a "corner" or a sudden "rise" in something else. Their nerves gone, their digestion gone, their brain gone—they die. The clergyman comes in and reads the funeral service, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." Mistake. They did not "die in the Lord"—the golden calf kicked them!

The trouble is when men sacrifice themselves on this altar suggested in the text they not only sacrifice themselves, but they sacrifice their families. If a man by an ill course is determined to go to perdition, I suppose you will have to let him go; but he puts his wife and children in an equipage that is the amazement of the avenues, and the driver lashes the horses into two whirlwinds, and the spokes flash in the sun, and the golden headgear of the harness gleams, until Black Calamity takes the bits of the horses and stops them, and shouts to the luxurious occupants of the equipage, "Get out!" They get out. They get down. That husband and father flung his family so hard they never got up again. There was the mark on them for life—the mark of a split hoof—the death dealing hoof of the golden calf.

Solomon offered in one sacrifice, on one occasion, twenty-two thousand oxen and one hundred and twenty thousand sheep; but that was a tame sacrifice compared with the multitude of men who are sacrificing themselves on this altar of the golden calf, and sacrificing their families with them. The soldiers of General Havelock in India walked literally ankle deep in the blood of the "house of massacre," where two hundred women and children had been slain by the Sepoys; but the blood around about this altar of the golden calf flows up to the knee, flows to the girdle, flows to the shoulder, flows to the lip. Great God of heaven and earth, have mercy! The golden calf has none.

HEARTS BROKEN FOR GOLD.

Still the degrading worship goes on, and the devotees kneel and kiss the dust, and count their golden beads, and cross themselves with the blood of their own sacrifice. The music rolls on under the arches; it is made of clinking silver and clinking gold and the rattling specie of the banks and brokers' shops and the voices of all the exchanges. The soprano of the worship is carried by the timid voices of men who have just begun to speculate, while the deep bass rolls out from those who for ten years of iniquity have been doubly damned. Chorus of voices rejoicing over what they have made. Chorus of voices wailing over what they have lost.

The temple of which I speak stands open day and night, and there is the glittering god with his four feet on broken hearts, and there is the smoking altar of sacrifice, new victims every moment on it, and there are the kneeling devotees, and the doxology of the worship rolls on, while death stands with moldy and skeleton arm beating time for the chorus—"More! more! more!"

Some people are very much surprised at the actions of folk on the Stock exchange. Indeed it is a scene sometimes that paralyzes description, and is beyond the imagination of any one who has never looked in. What snapping of finger and thumb and wild gesticulation, and raving like hyenas, and stamping like buffaloes, and swaying to and fro, and running one upon another, and deafening uproar until the president of the exchange strikes with his mallet four or five times, crying, "Order! order!" And the astonished spectator goes out into the fresh air feeling that he has escaped from pandemonium. What does it all mean? I will tell you what it means. The devotees of every heathen temple cut themselves to pieces and yell and gyrate. This vociferation and gyration of the Stock exchange is all appropriate. This is the worship of the golden calf.

PLUTOCRACY MUST PERISH.

But my text suggests that this worship must be broken up, as the behavior of Moses in my text indicated. There are those who say that this golden calf spoken of in my text was hollow, and merely plated with gold; otherwise, they say, Moses could not have carried it. I do not know that, but somehow, perhaps by the assistance of his friends, he takes up this golden calf, which is an insult to God and man, and throws it into the fire, and it is melted, and then it comes out and is cooled off, and by some chemical appliance, or by an old fashioned file, it is pulverized, and it is thrown into the brook, and as a punishment the people are compelled to drink the nauseating stuff.

So, my hearers, you may depend upon it that God will burn and he will grind to pieces the golden calf of modern idolatry, and he will compel the people in their agony to drink it. If not before, it will be so on the last day. I know not where the fire will begin, whether at the Battery or Central park, whether at Brooklyn bridge or at Bushwick, whether at Shoreditch, London or West End, but it will be a very hot blaze. All the government securities of the United States and Great Britain will curl up in the first blast. All the money, safes and depositing vaults will melt under the first touch. The sea will burn like tinder, and the shipping will be abandoned forever. The melted gold in the broker's window will burst through the melted window glass and into the street, but the flying population will not stop to scoop it up.

The cry of "Fire!" from the mountain will be answered by the cry of "Fire!" in the plain. The conflagration will burn out from the continent toward the sea, and then burn in from the sea toward the land. New York and London with one cut of the red scythe of destruction will go down. Twenty-five thousand miles of conflagration! The earth will wrap itself round and round in shroud of flame and lie down to perish. What then will become of your golden calf? Who then so poor as to worship it? Melted or between the upper and the nether millstone of falling mountains ground to powder. Dagon down. Moloch down. Juggernaut down. Golden calf down.

GOD'S JUDGMENTS ARE NIGH.

But, my friends, every day is a day of judgment, and God is all the time grinding to pieces the golden calf. Merchants of Brooklyn and New York and London, what is the characteristic of this time in which we live? "Bad," you say. Professional men, what is the characteristic of the times in which we live? "Bad," you say. Though I should be in a minority of one, I venture the opinion that these are the best times we have had, for the reason that God is teaching the world as never before that old fashioned honesty is the only thing that will stand. We have learned as never before that forgeries will not pay; that the spending of fifty thousand dollars on country seats and a palatial city residence, when there are only thirty thousand dollars income, will not pay; that the appropriation of trust funds to our own private speculation will not pay.

We had a great national tumor in the shape of fictitious prosperity. We called it national enlargement. Instead of calling it enlargement we might better have called it a swelling. It has been a tumor, and God is cutting it out—has cut it out—and the nation will get well and will come back to the principles of our fathers and grandfathers, when twice three made six instead of sixty, and when the apples at the bottom of the barrel were just as good as the apples on the top of the barrel, and a silk handkerchief was not half cotton, and a man who wore a five dollar coat paid for was more honored than a man who wore a fifty dollar coat not paid for.

The golden calf of our day, like the one of the text, is very apt to be made out of borrowed gold. These Israelites of the text borrowed the earrings of the Egyptians and then melted them into a god. That is the way the golden calf is made nowadays. A great many housekeepers, not paying for the articles they get, borrow of the grocer, and the baker, and the butcher, and the dry goods seller. Then the retailer borrows of the wholesale dealer. Then the wholesale dealer borrows of the capitalist, and we borrow and borrow and borrow until the community is divided into two classes—those who borrow and those who are borrowed of—and after awhile the capitalist wants his money and he rushes upon the wholesale dealer, and the wholesale dealer wants his money and he rushes upon the retailer, and the retailer wants his money and he rushes upon the consumer, and we all go down together.

There is many a man in this day who rides in a carriage and owes the blacksmith for the tire, and the wheelwright for the wheel, and the trimmer for the curtain, and the driver for unpaid wages, and the harness maker for the bridle, and the furrier for the robe, while from the tip of the carriage tongue clear back to the tip of the shawl fluttering out of the back of the vehicle everything is paid for by notes that have been three times renewed.

It is this temptation to borrow and borrow and borrow that keeps the people everlastingly praying to the golden calf for help, and just at the minute they expect the help the golden calf treads on them. The judgments of God, like Moses in the text, will rush in and break up this worship; and I say, let the work go on until every man shall learn to speak truth with his neighbor, and those who make engagements shall feel themselves bound to keep them, and when a man who will not repent of his business iniquity, but goes on wishing to satiate his cannibal appetite by devouring widows' houses, shall by the law of the land be compelled to exchange his mansion for Sing Sing. Let the golden calf perish!

LAY UP TREASURE IN HEAVEN.

But, my friends, if we have made this world our god, when we come to die we will see our idol demolished. How much of this world are you going to take with you into the next? Will you have two pockets—one in each side of your shroud? Will you cushion your coffin with bonds and mortgages and certificates of stock? Ah, no! The ferryboat that crosses this Jordan takes no baggage—nothing heavier than a spirit. You may perhaps take five hundred dollars with you two or three miles, in the shape of funeral trappings, to Greenwood, but you will have to leave them there. It would not be safe for you to lie down there with a gold watch or a diamond ring; it would be a temptation to the pillagers.

Ah, my friends, if we have made this world our god, when we die we will see our idol ground to pieces by our pillow, and we will have to drink it in bitter regrets for the wasted opportunities of a lifetime. Soon we will be gone. Oh, this is a fleeting world; it is a dying world! A man who had worshiped it all his days, in his dying moment described himself when he said, "Fool! fool! fool!"

I want you to change temples, and to give up the worship of this unsatisfying and cruel god for the service of the Lord Jesus Christ. Here is the gold that will never crumble. Here are securities that will never fail. Here are banks that will never break. Here is an altar on which there has been one sacrifice once for all. Here is a God who will comfort you when you are in trouble, and soothe you when you are sick, and save you when you die.

When your parents have breathed their last, and the old, wrinkled and trembling hands can no more be put upon your head for a blessing, he will be to you father and mother both, giving you the defense of the one and the comfort of the other; and when your children go away from you, the sweet darlings, you will not kiss them goodby forever. He only wants to hold them for you a little while. He will give them back to you again, and he will have them all waiting for you at the gates of eternal welcome.

Oh, what a God he is! He will allow you to come so close this morning that you can put your arms around his neck, while he in response will put his arms around your neck, and all the windows of heaven will be hoisted to let the redeemed look out and see the spectacle of a rejoicing father and returned prodigal locked in glorious embrace. Quit worshiping the golden calf, and bow this day before him in whose presence we must all appear when the world has turned to ashes and the scorched parchment of the sky shall be rolled together like an historic scroll.

Tuberculosis in Cows.

The danger of milk from tuberculous cows increases with the hot weather, and there is no way of spreading this disease so generally in a city in summer time as through the consumption of milk from emaciated and diseased cows. No other animal is capable of bearing the disease so long without exhibiting evidences of it as the domesticated bovine, and for this reason it is difficult to ascertain the source of tuberculosis in many cases. The normal temperature of the cow is over 102 degs., and this high temperature makes it possible for her to endure the processes without suffering to any great extent. It is rarely that the human temperature rises much above this during the stage of active tuberculization.

Dairymen therefore often see their cows performing their functions properly, and yet tuberculosis is present without their knowledge. The disease is only ascertained by them when the animal is sick and grows thin, and yields small quantities of milk. The fact is, when tuberculosis develops so far as to make the cow emaciated there is no danger from the milk, for it is entirely dried up and none is given. The danger is from the animals when they are in apparent good health.—Yankee Blade.

Moltke Interviewed.

Once when the field marshal was staying for the baths at Ragatz, he went alone through the woods to Pfaffers. As it was a hot, thirsty day he stopped at a wayside inn for refreshment. The landlord hailed him with, "Bather at Ragatz, aren't you?" "Yes." "Moltke is said to be there, eh?" "Yes." "How does he look?" "Well, he looks much as you or I look," answered the field marshal. On a later day the landlord was surprised to find he had been interrogating the great general himself.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Blindness on the Decrease.

Though we are told that blindness is on the decrease, it is sad to reflect that 300,000 people in Europe suffer from this dreadful affliction. Spain appears to be the greatest sufferer in this respect. An oculist tells us that scarcely one in twenty of watchmakers suffer from weak eyes.—Chambers' Journal.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The prospectus of the A. O. U. W. Building Company has been issued.

Sunset Lodge, K. of P., elect officers at their regular meeting Tuesday evening next.

A new A.O.U.W. lodge is to be organized at Wellington this evening. It will be opened by Grand Foreman Wolfe.

At the regular meeting of Sullivan lodge, A.O.U.W., held last evening, the members discussed the proposal to erect a building.

The Grand Lodge officers, A.F. and A.M., went over to Vancouver this morning to assist in the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the First Presbyterian church.

On Wednesday evening of next week the members of St. Andrew's and Caledonia Society will hold their annual dinner at the Driard. A large number of tickets have been sold, which means a large attendance as usual.

Loyal Pride of the West Lodge, C.O. O.F., (M.U.,) met last evening when important business was transacted. A committee was appointed to meet committees from other lodges and arrange for a Christmas tree for the children.

The local lodges I.O.O.F. have been busy electing officers for the ensuing term. The officers of Dominion Lodge were elected on Thursday evening. Acme Lodge officers were elected as follows: C. A. Strong, noble grand; A. E. Climo, vice grand; J. A. Clarke, recording secretary; E. Tubman, permanent secretary; Jas. Jackson, treasurer; and Messrs. Stroup, Edwards and McMillan, trustees.

The regular meeting of Far West Lodge, K. of P., was held last evening. One candidate took the second degree and two propositions for membership were received. The officers elected were: P. C., H. L. O'Brien; C. C., J. L. Smith; V. C., Thomas Deasy; Prelate, J. C. Meiss; K. of R. and S., Emil Pferdner (re-elected); M. of E., George E. Moss (re-elected); M. of F., S. Sea, jr. (re elected); M. of A., S. Jones, jr.

Capt. Irving's Joke.

Sea captains never tell "fibs." Their reputation for veracity is proverbial. Capt. John Irving is a fair sample of the sea captain. His strange statements to a TIMES man will be therefore taken without the usual grain of salt. Capt. Irving was asked who had secured the contract for repairing the Premier. He replied with the greatest nonchalance, that the Union Steamship Company were the successful tenderers. He was asked when work was going to be begun. "Oh!," said Capt. Irving, as he braced himself against the front door of the Driard House, "I am going to take her out of drydock and take her down to San Francisco." Of course the newspaperman believed the captain. Newspapermen always swallow nautical doses. "She will not be towed down," the captain added, "I'll sail her myself. She is now being patched up. We want to save money. The Union Iron Works only ask $100,000. I will start on my voyage Tuesday." The TIMES man meekly and mildly listened to the story and gives it to the reader, as sailors' stories always pass current. Captain Irving will have a large turn-out of the believing public to bid him "bon voyage."

Only Want Sympathy.

Geo. S. Baker, secretary of the Nicaragua Canal Company, has written United States Consul Myers. Mr. Baker asks Consul Myers to call a meeting of the business men of Victoria and to place the scheme before them asking that they express their opinions. The idea is not to get British Columbians to "take up" stock, but to obtain the sympathy of business men in the Pacific province. The canal would reduce the sailing distance 10,000 miles between Europe and the western shores of the North American continent.

For Several Months.

From seven in the morning till closing time every day in the week, Lange & Co., have been selling their splendid stock of jewelry, etc., away below auction prices, and those who purchase from them are not obliged to compete with others for bargains, and can take their own time selecting what they want. All goods purchased guaranteed. No one will regret buying from them. LANGE & CO., 93 Government street. *

Cause of the Accident.

Mr. Periman, one of the owners of the brigantine Planter, is in the city. He says the Planter's hull is perfectly sound and that the accident was caused by a leak in the deck. Her cargo of lumber is now being discharged, and it is expected that the necessary repairs will be commenced Tuesday.

Smallpox in Seattle.

Seattle health officials discovered two new cases of smallpox on Thursday. The total number of cases in the city is not known, but it is believed to largely exceed the highest number ever reported in Victoria.

We Think So Too.

A colored gentleman passing the stores of Russell, McDonald & Co., on Douglas street, read the sign—Russell, McDonald & Co., "Russell McDonald." Said he, "by thunder, there's more'n him hul heve ter rustle this winter."

By Home Industry.

For years during the winter months the young and old of Cedar Hill and Mount Tolmie district have been walking in mud ankle deep. This is now altered since the people of the district have put down plank after plank from St. Luke's church to the city boundary. This is claimed to be the most desirable suburban walk on the island.

Masquerade Ball.

Prof. J. Oliver will give his fourth annual masquerade ball on Wednesday evening, November 30th. This will be one of the social events of the season, and those attending are assured of a most enjoyable evening. Four handsome prizes will be given away. Admission, gentlemen maskers, 50cts; lady maskers free; spectaters, gentlemen 50cts, ladies 25cts. *

The Year's Improvements.

Notwithstanding the drawbacks of this year, building has been brisk in this city. City Assessor Northcott has already on his books improvements in the way of new buildings and residences amounting to $825,000. This does not include a large number of smaller buildings and cottages not yet assessed, nor the $80,000 spent on the new Driard since the first of the year. It is expected that by the end of the year over $1,000,000 will have been spent.

For Fooling With Firewater.

Jimmey, a Saanich Indian, found with a bottle of whiskey in his possession and Jon Bow who sold the whiskey to Jimmy, were up in the provincial police court before N. Shakespeare and E. Pearson, J. P.'s this morning. They were both found guilty. The Indian was fined $25 with $7 costs added, and given the option of two months at hard labor, and the white man was fined $50 with $6 costs added and given a chance to take one month at hard labor in lieu thereof.

Rush on the Treasury.

Those property owners who wish to vote at the elections of 1893, and also be exempt from an addition to their taxes, must pay their taxes to the city treasurer before next Thursday. The treasury officials are now preparing for the rush of taxpayers which will start on Monday. Eighty-five thousand dollars has been paid into the treasury for taxes since the first instant. Of this amount $13,000 was paid yesterday. It is expected that before Thursday this amount will be swolled to $216,000.

Surveying Comox.

A. S. Going, C.E., who has been north in the interests of the Canada Western Railway Company, returned to-day from Comox. While away he ran two preliminary lines from Duluth to Comox. He will now, acting under directions from Mr. F. P. Blackman, return and proceed to finally locate the line between the two points mentioned. He will begin immediately and organize a party and will be on the ground as early as possible.

The Duff Opera Company.

The engagement of the Duff Opera Company begins at the Victoria theatre on Monday night, and is an event looked forward to by all music lovers, with every anticipation of pleasure. The sale of seats has been unprecedented in the city. There will not be a vacant chair on Monday or Tuesday nights. The piece to be presented on Monday night is Suppe's "Die Afrikarеise," or as it is known in English dress, "A Trip to Africa." The St. Paul Pioneer Press says of its production there,—"Seldom is a more evenly balanced and more thoroughly trained chorus heard in light opera in St. Paul. This feature has, however, been one of the specialties of the Duff Company, few operas offering a better opportunity for displaying the ensemble strength of a chorus than 'A Trip to Africa,' the several involved finales and fourpart choruses being invariably superbly and accurately sung, particularly the excellent crescendo in the finale of the first act." On Tuesday night "Trial by Jury," and "Cavalleria Rusticana." "As a whole," says an eminent critic, "'Cavalleria Rusticana' is a decidedly morbid composition, and should be heard often to be thoroughly appreciated. Its sombre construction is well offset by the bright and musical farce or operetta, 'A Trial by Jury,' which is given as an afterpiece. Mr. Ryley, as the judge, is inimitable, and throughthe cast is excellent, the performance as a whole being one of the best."

Return of the Quadra.

The Dominion steamer Quadra arrived in port yesterday after visiting East Point, Brockton Point and Entrance Island lighthouses. Sidney was called at on the way down and the new buoys laid there last month found all right. A series of soundings was taken from Sidney Spit beacon along Sidney Island close past Whale rock to Darcey Island and deeper water was found than stated in the chart. A search was made for the rock marked on chart 2689, northward of the three fathom patches, but without success. Before leaving the neighborhood a large spar buoy colored red was placed on the S.E. edge of the easternmost three fathom patch, marking a safe channel between the buoy and Darcey Island.

The Charge Was False.

M. Grant was charged in the police court with the theft of a box from the Clarence Hotel. The warrant was sworn out by Mrs. Royal, manager of the hotel. Mrs. Royal acknowledged in the witness box that Grant had claimed the box. The box was owned by a woman who left the city, leaving debts behind her. Jones, the proprietor of the Clarence, claimed that he had a right to keep the box. The court lectured Mrs. Royal for preferring such a charge, and Chief of Police Sheppard said he knew that Grant was acting as agent for the owner of the box. The warrant was torn up and the affair was relegated for settlement to the civil court.

The New Matron.

Miss McMillan, the new matron for the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital, has arrived from the east. She will relieve Miss Mouatt on the first of December. Miss McMillan was appointed matron when the Jubilee Hospital was opened, but at that time the Toronto Hospital directors would not part with her.

The Roman Catholic Mission.

The mission at St. Andrew's Catholic Cathedral will begin Sunday morning at the 10:30 mass. Father Lindner will preach. There will be daily masses at 5:30 and 8 p.m, and vespers at 7:30 Special instruction will be given children on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

Cedar Hill.

Next Thursday night at 8 o'clock in St. Luke's church school, the Scotch and Irish scenery to be exhibited will draw a large crowd to see old Glasgow, Edinburgh, the Highlands, Dublin, lakes of Killarney, and the Western Isles, with songs from Burns and Moore.

THE HOMESTEAD STRUGGLE.

The Wives of the Workmen Responsible for the Continuance of the Strike.

Some Stirring Scenes and Incidents of the Great Pennsylvania Riots.

It is the women of Homestead who are chiefly responsible for the continuance of the great strike in the Carnegie mills.

It is undoubtedly the fact that not less than one-third of the workers would long ago have given up the struggle had it not been for their wives. This one-third, with the other men who are and have been willing to give up the fight, would be more than enough to officially declare the strike off.

Many good stories of the part the women have taken and the part they are now taking are told, but few of them have found their way into print.

A group of mill-workers stood on a street corner talking last night. Said one: "Boys, do you know what is keeping me out on this strike? I'll tell you. It is the dying message of my little wife.

"I went out on the strike with the rest of the boys. As you know, it caught me at a bad time, for I didn't have a cent. I had been sick for a long time, as some of you know.

"Well, it was looking so blue that I was on the point of giving in several times, but my wife, she says to me: 'Don't.' We scratched along somehow, and she even took in work to help out. Well, she took sick and died—that was two weeks ago—and when she was on her deathbed she says to me: 'Jim, you wanted to go back to work to keep us from suffering, but I knew that by so doing you would sacrifice your honor. We've suffered together, and I'm going to our Father above, but before I go I want you to promise me that you will stick to the union. Promise me that you won't disgrace us by going back on the boys.' And with that she died.

"I tell you, boys, I'll stick to this fight. After that, what else can I do? Do you think I could have the face of that dead woman glaring at me all the time, and hear her saying, 'Stick to the union, Jim,' and all the while going back on the union? No, sir."

The morning of the great fight with the Pinkertons one woman called her husband and told him to go out and fight. She urged him not to lose a minute. Her son was at home on a visit. He wanted to go, too, but she wanted him to stay at home with her. He went in spite of her protests. He was carried home to her, it was believed, mortally wounded.

Still she urged her husband on and kept him in the field nearly all the day. He is now accused of murder, while she continually urges the men to stand firm and not give in.

When the company posted its notices inviting its men to return to work a young man who had been married less than a year was the first to apply. He was a mechanic and had no affiliation whatever with the Amalgamated Association. His services were accepted.

He stayed in the mill three days and then decided he would go home and see his wife. He found the house barred against him. His wife was in and the door was locked. He knocked. She answered, and when she saw him waiting for admittance she banged the door in his face and screamed, "Go away! go away! I don't want anything to do with you; you are a black sheep."

"Mollie, Mollie!" he cried, "what is the matter with you? I am your husband."

"You are no husband of mine," answered the woman. "I don't want you and won't have you; you are a black sheep. I won't live with you."

The young man went away to a neighbor's, where he was informed by the lady of the house that he deserved all he got and more. He finally promised he would not go back to work in the mill, and this woman agreed to intercede for him and did.

For two whole days his wife refused to see him, notwithstanding his reformation. Then she permitted him to come home on probation. In response to his pleadings that he had only returned to work for her sake and to prevent her suffering from want, she said she would rather die of starvation than be disgraced.

Matters in the household are still in a strained condition. She has not quite fully forgiven him, and she declares she never can think as much of him as she did before.

A crowd of young women were standing in the Homestead postoffice discussing the strike. "I gave him the go-by last night," said one. "I can't stand a black sheep."

"Were you going to marry him?" asked one of the other girls.

"It wasn't exactly settled," was the reply, "but I tremble to think what a narrow escape I had. Just think of it, being tied up for life to a black sheep," and all the girls shivered in unison.

"Well, my brother John would have gone back, I do believe," said another of the girls, "if mamma and me hadn't got after him. He said there was no chance left of winning the strike, and he was going to work, but mamma and me told him plain that if he deserted he need never come home again, for we didn't want to see him, and we wouldn't, either. So he said he would wait until the men won. Of course, they will win."

There is another case similar to the one mentioned by the first of this party of girls. The names are omitted, but it is none the less true and the relatives of the young woman tell it with some pride. The heroine, a pretty, black-eyed miss, popular in Homested social circles, and a fine-looking young man, employed by the steel company, were engaged to be married, and, had all gone well, the ceremony uniting them in marriage would have been performed early in September.

When the company called upon its clerical force to go into the mill and assist in getting things into shape preparatory to making a start with non-union men, the young man was among the first to obey. As luck would have it, he found himself engaged upon work which had been performed, prior to the lock-out, by his sweetheart's brother, who is a member of the union.

When the young lady heard of this her indignation went up into the nineties. Womanlike, she had a good cry. This formally gone through with, she dried her eyes and with a stamp of her foot declared to her parents that she would "never, no never, marry a black sheep."

"But he had to do this work in order to hold his place in the office," said her mother.

"I don't care; no black sheep can be a man. I won't marry him, so there."

When the young man learned how things stood, which he did when he called that very evening, he tried to square himself by promising to leave the company's employ, but it was too late. Finding his pleadings were of no avail, the discarded lover very philosophically decided that he couldn't afford to lose a good job and a wife in one week, so he returned to work the next morning. He performs his duties with a pen in his hand and a misfit engagement ring in his vest pocket.

The young lady made a bonfire of a bushel or more of his love letters, and called in all the neighboring girls to see them burn. After the fire they had an indignation meeting, at which he was thoroughly denounced, and then a lunch was served by the disengaged young woman.

The wives of the men who have gone back to work are made to suffer by the wives of the men who are still holding out. First, every influence is brought to bear on them to induce their husbands to quit, and when unsuccessful, the women are ostracized. Whenever they appear on the street they are called names, and bodily harm is threatened. Sometimes children are sent into the street with instructions to throw mud at them.

In two cases that are known it has been necessary for the men to leave the mill and take their families from the town for fear that the threats of harm will be carried out.

When the Pinkerton men on the barges surrendered, it will be remembered that they were set upon and beaten by the mob. That mob was made up chiefly of women. All the women who took part in that riot have been moving heaven and earth to keep any of the men from going back to work.

On every occasion before the arrival of troops, when the alarm was sounded, it was a common sight to see women running through the streets with rifles in their hands searching for their husbands or fathers or brothers.

The night of the first false alarm a Herald reporter was standing near the railroad depot, and a very pretty young woman dashed past him and forced a rifle into the hands of a man standing near. "Here, John;" she said, "it's all right; I loaded it myself; go now and use it; make every shot you fire count and don't come back to me beaten."

The reason for this determination on the part of the Homestead women is a very interesting question, and one that is not easy to answer.

THE DISMAL SWAMP.

A Virginian Who Hopes to Render Useful a Famous Region.

The famous Dismal Swamp, of Virginia, has been sold to Thomas Ballentine, a millionaire farmer of the State, for $10,100—a good deal of ground and water for the money. If the farmer is energetic, the Brooklyn Eagle says, he will recover his outlay and make a good deal besides, for the swamp is not all swamp, by any means. Originally the swamp was a dreadful morass for perhaps the larger part of its mapped extent; it was little know to white people and for that reason it was an advantageous hiding place for slaves who were flying from bondage and making their way northward. That some of them gained their liberty is known, but it is quite probable that many of them lost their way in the wilderness and perished there in the awful silence of black waters and moss bannered trunks, sinking to death, perhaps, in the stagnant ooze, or falling, exhausted with hunger and travel, amid entangling vegetation that shut out the sight of the sky that overhangs the northern land of liberty.

By the digging of the canal some of the ponded waters of the swamp were drained and when a railroad was carried through it was followed by the "making" of new ground on which to plant stations, mills for cutting fuel for the locomotives, cabins for the men employed in the maintenance of the road and "truck" gardens for small farmers who supply the men. These patches of good ground have spread and grown until there is something of a permanent population in the swamp and capacity for more. A northern man who went there to settle would probably require a few pounds of quinine pills, and would always look around the floor before he went to bed to make sure that the servant had put the rattlesnakes and moccasins out for the night; but people inured to the climate and conditions, perhaps through generations, seem to thrive as well there as others do on dry plains and salubrious hills.

There are thousands of square miles of this country that figured on maps of 1860 as the arid and uninhabitable, and an enormous tract between the Missouri and the Sierras was labeled "the great American desert." Franklin, with the far-seeing eye of the philosopher, drew his pen through this title when he found a map that bore it hanging in the study of the King of France. It might not have been good manners, but it was done in the interest of what the scholar felt instinctively to be the truth. It required a century to justify the act, but it has been justified and on the soil that buffaloes had beaten into a crust during their ages of wandering up and down the continent, and that Lieutenants Pike and Long reported would never be capable of supporting a population, "except Indians," crops grow luxuriantly, trees spread their grateful shade where the ghostly sage brush whispered in the wind and fair cities dot the plain with happy homes and send afar the hum of prosperous labor.

Costly Mats.

The costliest mats in the world are owned by the Shah of Persia and the Sultan of of Turkey. The Shah and the Sultan each possess a mat made of pearls and diamonds valued at over $2,500,000. The largest mat ever made is owned by the Carleton Club, of London, and is a work of art.

4,100 Words on a Postal Card.

John J. Taylor, of Streator, Ill., once wrote 4,100 words on the blank side of a postal card without artificial aid. The words on that single card, if printed in regular newspaper type, would fill two and three-quarters columns of any of our great metropolitan dailies.

TALENT FOR MISERY.

Parable of a Man With a Woman in His Heart.

Mr. C., a prominent character in Washington society in the early part of this century, was noted not only for his wit and great wealth, but for his habit of incessant grumbling. He had a positive talent for misery.

He married, in middle age, a woman, young, beautiful, rich and amiable. Two friends, meeting him, stopped to congratulate him, and to find what cause he could discover for discontent.

"Well, C.," said one, "you have at last found perfection!"

"Y-e-s; but do you know she has a plug in one tooth? I wish she had not told me, for now, whether she sings or laughs or sleeps, I think of nothing but that plug!"

Mr. Thomas Appleton, it is said, visited Carlyle and listened for an hour to his bitter complaints of every person or thing spoken of. At last, to turn the subject, the visitor said:

"What a beautiful country surrounds your home, Mr. Carlyle!"

"Yes; but did you not see the dead cats in the road?"

"No," said Mr. Appleton, impatiently; "but you will see them wherever you go."

The old Dutch farmers in Pennsylvania have a phrase to designate one of these incessant complainers, which signifies "The man with a worm in his heart." He is unsound at the core. His own morbid discontent eats outward like mildew, and taints everything that comes into their lives.

Every community and family knows one of these men with a worm at his heart, and can testify what a heavy burden he is to carry.

Tradition says that Tommy Dill, a well-known itinerant preacher in western Pennsylvania in early times, once came to the house of one of these grumblers, a rich farmer, in July.

"How fine a yield of plums you have, Brother B.!" he said.

"All got the curculio," growled the farmer.

"You have more grapes than you can pick."

"The rain has soured them. No good."

"How was the corn this summer?"

"Total failure!" triumphantly exclaimed B. "I hadn't a stalk."

"Do you know why God gave you no corn this year?" demanded the parson, fiercely, turning on him. "That you might go down on your knees and thank Him for last year's crop."

But the men who learn the lesson to thank God in disaster are but few.

The habit of perpetual grumbling comes at first to young people not so much because they are ungrateful or ill-natured as because they are weak and crave sympathy. An aching tooth, the prick of a pin, are made pretexts to gain pity, as well as great sorrows, until at last they begin to believe in their own misfortunes, and, like the old man in Æsop, are ready to call on the gods and Death himself to come to their help, if their bunch of fagots weighs an ounce too much.

Huet, the French wit, tells us the story of a certain Selim, the son of Bejaget, who won the hearts of all the people in the kingdom, and was followed by adoring multitudes. His father, requiring him to disclose the secret of his charm, found that every morning before beginning a new day he swallowed a grain of a plant which grows in Turkey, which expunges from the memory all disagreeable things.

The plant grows no longer in Turkey, or elsewhere. The only thing which will produce its effect is faith, which makes all pain and loss insignificant, and puts into the heart, in their stead, a certainty of better things, hope and high contentment.—The Household.

By the Sea.

At morn beside the ocean's foamy roar
I walked soft-shadowed through the luminous mist,
And saw not clearly sea or land, nor wist
Where the tide stayed, nor where began the shore.
A gentle seaward wind came down and bore
The scent of roses and of bayberry;
And through the great gray veil that hid the sea
Broke the pale sun, a silvery warmth, not more.
So through the fogs that cover all this life
I walk as in a dream, 'twixt sea and land,
The meadows of wise thought, the sea of strife,
And sounds and happy scents from either hand
Come with vast gleams that spread and softly shine,
The joy of life, the energy divine.
—Archibald Lampman, in Youth's Companion.

The Lesson of Trials.

We never have more trials than we can bear. The present hour we are always able to endure. As our day, so is our strength. If the trials of many years were gathered into one, they would overwhelm us, therefore, in pity of our little strength. He sends first one, then another, then removes both, and lays a third, heavier perhaps, than either, but all is so wisely measured to our strength that the bruised reed is never broken. We do not enough look at our trials in this continuous and successive view. Each one is sent to teach us something, and altogether they have a lesson which is beyond the power of any to teach alone.—Cardinal Manning.

NOTES FROM KOOTENAY.

American Capitalists Bonding Several Claims at Ainsworth and Lardeau.

New Strikes Reported--Railway Work —General News of the Mining District.

From the Nelson Miner.]

Whilst doing assessment work on one of his properties near Ainsworth, G. B. Wright is said to have struck a big ledge which assays high in silver.

On the Centre Star 11 men are employed in tunnel and shaft work. The face of the tunnel is solid ore. Development work will be continued all winter.

Lardeau Jack's pre-emption, just outside the Kaslo Townsite Company's land, has been surveyed. It is Jack's intention to put some of it on the market.

Before Captain Fitzstubbs, on Friday, the 11th inst., R. F. Perry was charged by the Davies-Sayward Company with embezzlement. The accused was committed for trial, and released on bail.

Mr. Rockefeller, of the Standard Oil Trust, has bonded the Great Northern in the Lardeau for $75,000. Mr. Rockefeller went to look at this property in a sceptical frame of mind, but came, saw and was conquered.

D. C. Corbin and E. J. Roberts, president and chief engineer of the Spokane and Northern railroad, have lately acquired two properties in the Trail Creek group. They are the Yellow Jacket and the Standard, and will assay as rich as the Le Roi.

The Silver King deal is not yet an accomplished fact. Arrangements have been made for the winter at the mine, and supplies have been ordered for the few men who will be at work there. Definite news of the success of the deal may be expected some time before Christmas.

When the Ainsworth came up to the Government wharf on Thursday she found all the available berths occupied. In trying to make a landing at the end of the wharf, she carried away her aft bulkhead on Buchanan's scow, which had been left projecting beyond the sides of the landing stage.

Lyman Carter and Ed. Haney have a 12-foot body of ore on the City of Spokane. The O. K. claim is showing splendid specimens of gold ore that will bring $1200. Two men are employed driving a tunnel to tap the main ledge. The vein is 30 inches in width. Considerable of the ore will be sacked and taken to Tacoma.

The Gem mine, Wallace, Idaho, has been sold for $1,000,000. This means the investment of much money in Kootenay by A. M. Esler. Among other things it guarantees a mill on the Dandy in the spring. And we guarantee that miners in this country will be too glad to see a mill to have any thoughts of blowing it up.

The C.P.R. have not, as seems to have been generally supposed, abandoned work on the Crow's Nest line until next spring. Word reaches us that there are two grading camps in the pass to the west of Garnet's ranch, whilst several camps are situated to the east of this point. A very considerable force of men is employed and the grade is being rapidly carried forward. This looks like business.

The steamer Nelson mysteriously lost one of her passengers on her down trip last Monday week. His name was Wm. J. McCleary. He was last seen near Ball's ranch. Not long after it was discovered that he was missing. He had a trunk on board, and his overcoat was found in his stateroom. He was registered for Kaslo. It is supposed that he fell overboard and was drowned.

Dr. Hendryx was in town on Friday, and is as full of enthusiasm and confidence about West Kootenay as ever. He thinks the Lardeau is going to be the equal if not the rival of the Slocan. The grade of the Lardeau ore is good, and there are unquestionably bigger bodies of ore present than in Slocan. "I had some assays from the Lardeau country (float ore) in '85 and '86 that beat the world," said the doctor, "and I have spent $700 looking for the ledge. I have never found it and probably never will."

Mr. Charles F. Law, representative of the Mineral Department of the province of British Columbia, being convinced, after his visit to Chicago, that greater preparations and a larger outlay are necessary to do justice to the resources of this province, waited upon the Minister of Finance on November the 9th. The result was that he obtained a special grant of $500, which has been telegraphed to the credit of the following committee at Kaslo City: John Keen, Rev. D M. Martin, G. O. Buchanan, Robert Green, and Thomas Norquay, to enable them to carry out the project to a successful issue and secure as fine a collection of ore as possible.

A. M. Johnston, acting, it is presumed, for a Seattle syndicate, has bonded the Lady of the Lake, the Mamie, and the Sultan claims, at Ainsworth for $16,000. It is intended to start work on them at once. As soon as the machinery, consisting of a steam or electric drill, can be got in, a tunnel will be driven from the lake shore. Ainsworth has suffered, like all towns on the lake, from the Slocan excitement; that she has lots of life left yet, however, is evidenced by the bonding of these claims, and by other signs which indicate that she will spend a winter more lively than has been the past summer.

Contracts have been let for rock work on the Spokane road between Northport and the boundary line. There are several bad points between the present terminus of the road to the Pend d'Oreille River, and they have to be got out of the way at once so that the track may be laid as far as the river, and the foundations of the bridge built before the water rises. Mr. Roberts, chief engineer, is at present engaged in locating the railway bridge across the mouth of the stream. It is expected that a contract will be let for the grading on the whole road within two or three months, and construction will be commenced just as soon as it can be carried on continuously without obstruction from snow.

TRAIL CREEK.

Work on most of the claims will be continued during the winter, and much development work has been accomplished during the summer.

On the Le Roi 13 men are at work, eight of whom are in the shaft and the rest employed in the tunnel. A contract has been let for a continuation of the shaft for 120 feet, giving it a depth of 200 feet. A lack of roads has prevented the introduction of machinery, but a "common-sense" whim has been built over the shaft, which will answer all purposes until next spring, when the roads will be completed and all the necessary machinery for rapid development work and milling will be carried in. The ore at the bottom of the shaft is looking nicely, and is fully as rich as that found on the surface. Two shifts are driving in a tunnel 320 feet, and the ledge is expected any day. The character of the rock through which the tunnel passes is porphyritic syenite.

LARDEAU.

The richest district in the Lardeau contains what may be aptly christened the Calner group, and consists of 7 or 8 claims. The ledges are from 2 to 50 feet wide, and assay from 40 ozs. (the lowest) up to as high as 10,000 ozs. silver, the ores are principally galena, but on a few claims there is black sulphide, gray copper and silver glance; the three last named, of course, being the highest grade. Other groups are thus reported:—Abrahamson Group—5 ft. ore, 47 gold, 80 ozs. silver and 40 per cent. lead. Blackburn Group—six claims, 6 ft. ore, 30 gold, 102 silver. Ben Raimie Group—7 claims, average 8 feet, 20 gold, 60 silver, 45 per cent. lead. Poole Group—Five claims, 10 feet, 4 gold, 50 silver, 70 per cent. lead. Haskins Group—Eight claims, small per cent. gold, 40 silver, 70 per cent. lead. Wagner Group—Three claims, 25 gold, 95 silver, 60 per cent. lead.

Most of these claims will be tributary to Trout Lake, and ore can be conveniently shipped from either by Kootenay or Arrow Lake.

It is evident that the rich Slocan ledges continue on northward, and apparently do not get any poorer as they travel.

THIS IS NO JOKE.

TO THE EDITOR:—The numerous citizens who drink in the contents of your paper with their tea in the evening, must have retired to rest last night with an unwonted ease of mind, for was it not chronicled therein that Dr. George Duncan, reinforced by the majesty, not of the law, but of a police officer, had successfully frustrated the nefarious designs of a passenger on the Kingston, and had sent him back to Seattle, that bourne from whence no traveler returns, if he can help it, while these regulations exist. Thus we have been saved once more from an awful visitation of the dread disease, and we must all feel thankful to Dr. Duncan, whose sharp eyes failed to find that typical appearance on the man's arm that we have lately heard so much about, but failed to see, owing to the large quantity of inert calf lymph that was used during the late, but unlamented epidemic.

It is true that Dr. Jones, who is a physician of experience, and who I fancy was vaccinating before Dr. Duncan was born, thought it was a genuine type of an arm, but possibly being merely a Dominion officer he was prejudiced. Let me therefore not seem to detract from the need of praise due Dr. Duncan. The passenger had no doubt the usual number of arms, but one of them was not typical, and what therefor could he look for but an ignominious return to whence he came?

A mild curiosity possesses me to know how many of the passengers who landed with certificates could have exposed typical marks if they had been challenged. Can Dr. Duncan lay his hand on his heart and say that all, or even a large proportion had been successfully vaccinated, and does he know how their certificates were obtained? I asked a doctor these questions—he still speaks to me, though rather coldly, since I began writing to the newspapers—but I regret to say that in answer to the first, instead of laying his hand on his heart, he thrust his tongue into his cheek, and in answer to the second, he made a mysterious gesture over the left shoulder. What he meant I do not know, but I inferred that his confidence in the certificate system was by no means robust, and some knowledge of that same system, acquired nearer home, leads me to agree with him.

If the quarantine is necessary let it be effective, and let it be carried out intelligently. Do not let us have two officers conducting two inspections and disagreeing as to their results, and if passengers must be vaccinated insist upon their being vaccinated successfully, and turn back all who cannot show typical marks. By these means we shall so discourage travel that there will be some room in Victoria for a man to get on, instead of as at present having to hustle for a living alongside all sorts of people from the United States and Canada. Let us keep our city for ourselves, and show the outside world that here even the arm of the law is typical. ANGUS.
